SUCCESSFUL CAKES

Every homemaker hopes to make the perfect cake. This is entirely possible with our present knowledge and equipment. "Lady Luck" of our grandmothers' day no longer plays a role in cakemaking. If standard measuring equipment and quality ingredients are used and the directions for mixing and baking are followed carefully a perfect cake is the result.

There are two types of cakes: those made with shortening and those made without shortening. Cakes without shortening are sponge type and depend for leavening on air beaten into eggs.

STANDARD MEASURING EQUIPMENT—In this book all measurements are level. Standard measuring equipment consists of a standard measuring cup (one containing 8 fluid ounces and marked off on one side to read $\frac{1}{4}$, $\frac{1}{2}$ and $\frac{3}{4}$ and on the other side to read $\frac{1}{3}$ and $\frac{2}{3}$) and a set of measuring spoons. The spoons include 1 tablespoon, 1 teaspoon, $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon and $\frac{1}{4}$ teaspoon. One cup contains 16 tablespoons.

TO MEASURE FLOUR—Always sift flour once before measuring. Heap flour lightly into cup with a scoop or spoon, level off top with spatula or straight edge of a knife. For a fraction of a cup, cut surface of sifted flour toward fraction line with edge of spoon, do not press down. Never dip cup into flour, as it packs down. Be careful not to jar or rap filled cup on the table. This causes flour to settle and results in too much flour being used.

TO MEASURE SUGAR—Fill cup with granulated or white sugar and level off with spatula or straight edge of knife. Brown sugar is measured differently from other dry ingredients. It is packed so firmly that when turned out it will hold its shape.

TO MEASURE BAKING POWDER, SALT, SPICES, SODA, etc.—

Use standard measuring spoon. Fill spoon heaping full, level off with spatula and divide as desired. Use fractional measuring spoons whenever possible.

TO MEASURE SOLID SHORTENING—Pack shortening firmly into measuring spoon or cup and level off with spatula. Pack so firmly that when turned out it will retain its shape. A simple method of measuring fractions of a cup of shortening is by water displacement. For example if $\frac{1}{3}$ cup shortening is needed, fill measuring cup $\frac{2}{3}$ full of cold water, then add pieces of shortening, pushing them under the water until water level reaches 1 cup. If $\frac{1}{2}$ cup shortening is needed fill cup $\frac{1}{2}$ full of water and continue as above. Drain. Print butter or margarine may be measured by dividing the pound: 1 pound equals 2 cups. Each quarter pound package of butter is equal to $\frac{1}{2}$ cup.

TO MEASURE LIQUIDS—Set cup on a level surface to fill. Pour thick sticky liquids as sirup and molasses from container into spoon or cup. Do not dip utensil into container.

CAKE INGREDIENTS—Use ingredients of high quality. Have all ingredients at room temperature to obtain best results.

SHORTENING—Makes the cake tender. Use a shortening with a mild sweet flavor and one which will cream easily. If unsalted shortening is used, increase salt.

SUGAR—Fine granulated sugar is used in all the recipes unless otherwise indicated. Coarse sugar makes a coarse-textured cake. Brown sugar and maple sugar add flavor in addition to sweetening cake.

EGGS—Eggs of medium size have been used in all the following recipes. Remove eggs from refrigerator several hours before using so that they will beat up to their greatest volume. In separating it is important that none of the yolk gets into the white. If this occurs the white will not whip to a stiff foam.

FLOUR—Two types of flour are used in cakemaking. Cake flour is made from soft winter wheats and all-purpose flour made from spring or winter wheats. Cake flour has been used in most of the following recipes as it produces a lighter, more tender cake. If all-purpose flour is used instead of cake flour reduce the amount of flour by 2 tablespoons per cup and avoid over-beating the batter.

BAKING POWDER—In the following recipes a compromise amount of baking powder has been used, insuring satisfactory results with any brand.

LIQUID—Milk, sweet or sour, is most commonly used; however, cream, buttermilk, water, fruit juices and coffee may be used.

MIXING OF CAKE—Follow directions carefully for each recipe. For cakes with shortening, sift dry ingredients together as directed, cream shortening and add sugar gradually, creaming until light and fluffy. Always add a small quantity of dry ingredients to creamed mixture first, then add liquids and dry ingredients alternately.

PANS—Prepare pans before mixing cake; grease pans for cakes made with shortening. Do not grease pans for cakes made without shortening as the batter needs to cling to the sides of pan in order to reach top volume. Fill pan $\frac{1}{2}$ to $\frac{2}{3}$.

BAKING—Start heating oven before mixing cake. Place cake as near center of oven as possible, do not place one cake pan directly over another. Refrain from unnecessarily opening oven door.

TESTING CAKE—Baking time for cake is usually divided into quarters. During first quarter cake rises, second quarter it continues to rise and browns slightly, third quarter rising stops and fourth quarter cake finishes baking. A cake is done when it shrinks slightly from the sides of the pan, springs back when pressed lightly or when a cake tester or toothpick comes out clean from center of cake.

REMOVING CAKE FROM PANS

—Place cake made with shortening on rack and let cool in pan 5 minutes. Then turn out. For sponge type, turn pan upside down on rack and let hang until cold.
